

Goodman Fielder Environment Policy

Our vision at Goodman Fielder is ‘to be the leading and most innovative local food company’. We believe that driving environmental sustainability will support our efforts to achieve this vision.

We are committed to sourcing and using our raw materials responsibly, minimising waste, and protecting the local environments in which we operate. All our employees, and other individuals working on our behalf, have a role to play in improving our environmental performance. Our environmental priorities are shown in the table below.

The environmental priorities for Goodman Fielder’s operations are:	The environmental priorities across our supply chain are:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reducing energy consumption • Reducing water consumption • Reducing waste • Legal compliance and local community relationships 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reducing waste • Managing the impacts of climate change • Responsible sourcing • Sustainable packaging

To meet our environmental commitments, we will:

- Set measurable objectives and targets and strive for continuous improvement
- Engage with stakeholders to regularly review and manage material environmental impacts
- Maintain an environment management system
- Implement a responsible sourcing code to address priority concerns within our supply chain
- Encourage innovation in packaging, product and process design, value chain management, and partnerships to enhance our environmental performance
- Provide relevant information and education about our environmental strategies and performance to internal and external stakeholders
- Comply with legal requirements, relevant standards and the intent of this policy

At Goodman Fielder ‘we look after our own – in the company and the community’.

Scott Weitemeyer
Chief Executive Officer
Goodman Fielder
Date: 21 May 2015

